

Southern Fried Science Fiction: Tales from Terminus and the World of NASCAR

This is a collection of novellas, and short stories based in Atlanta and the world of NASCAR. Each has a unique southern flavor, but a wide appeal. Whether you are a science fiction fan or a NASCAR fan there is something for each of you. The Anthology contains the following: Shifting Under Your feet - Novella - What happens when the world changes but the people cant? The world turns making Kansas the North Pole. We meet Carl a comic book store owner in Buckhead, Melissa a mother of two from Kansas, and George an officer in the National Guard in the suburbs of Atlanta. Left Behind ( Not that story, a zombie story) - Novella - They should not be alive, but they band together and make a life in downtown Atlanta. This small band of people who would be ignored by anyone else find safety and make a life in the W hotel located in downtown Atlanta. The Last House on Earth - Short Story - With every advance there are costs. Flying cars means living in bunkers. One man just cant give up his home or having 4 wheels on the ground. Lifter - Short Story - 19-year-old NASCAR drivers are not uncommon, but this 19-year-old girl has a gift that gives her an advantage over all the boys, telekinesis. The Spotter - Short Story - If you can see the future what career path would you choose? Joe chose to be a spotter for a NASCAR team. The Jackman - Short Story - Pit crews are athletes. Some choices athletes make have big impacts on their life and the lives of others. This jackman takes a chance to try to recover faster and it changes his life forever. Serving Up Answers - Short Story - Archeological students put their findings on record for all history to review. The Sponsor - Short Story - NASCAR has fans from every walk of life, even alien life. When an aging racer needs a sponsor for one last run at a championship The Arrival comes through with the money.
