Thirteen-year-old Rivan was used to being different: his mother is from India, his father is an American. And to save his life during a tragic illness, he gradually changed into a cyborg. After making a mysterious discovery, his life takes a new turn - and he becomes a trainee in a powerful, space-faring organization which connects entire universes. Finally, Rivan feels he belongs, and he makes new friends among the aliens he meets. One of them, Quintus, is from the hyperspace, and he's desperately trying to get back home. Quintus claims that an evil being has infiltrated the hyperspace, and he wants Rivan to help him. A dangerous race through wormholes, parallel worlds, and hyperspace itself begins - but Rivan isn't even sure whether he can trust his new friend from a higher dimension, and he's determined to uncover the truth.
